

DIRECTORATE OF COLLEGES IN PUNJAB: (A CASE STUDY OF DIVISION FAISALABAD)

ABDUL QADIR MUSHTAQ<sup>1</sup> & ANAM SALEEM<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Assistant Professor, Department of History & Pakistan Studies, GC University, Faisalabad, Pakistan

<sup>2</sup>Research Scholar, Department of History & Pakistan Studies, GC University, Faisalabad, Pakistan

ABSTRACT

Punjab is the key province of Pakistan due to its contribution in economy and education of Pakistan. The various governments made efforts in various periods to boost the standard of education through establishing new colleges in various places. Even the colleges have been established in villages level also so that the education may be promoted among the backward people. Experienced persons are appointed the principals of through colleges through promotion criteria. While the opportunity is given to those graduates who qualify themselves from the best universities of Pakistan for teaching through Punjab Public Service Commission. For improving the standard of education and controlling the administrative set up in colleges, the Directorate of colleges is established at the divisional level. Faisalabad is also one of those division where the office of Directorate of colleges is working. The Faisalabad Civil Division which started functioning with effect from 1.7.1982 is called Faisalabad Division and comprises districts of Faisalabad, Jhang and Toba Tek Singh. On 01.07.2009 new district Chiniot, bifurcating district Jhang, was established and added in Faisalabad Division. Chiniot was previously Tehsil of District Jhang. On 1st July, 2009, Chiniot was raised to the status of District and trifurcated into three Tehsils namely Chiniot, Bhowana & Lalian. Chiniot has an area of 2643 Sq. KM and an estimated population of 1.2 Million. This paper will highlight the importance of education in the lives of men in the society. It will also present the working of the directorate of colleges at the divisional level.

KEYWORDS: Punjab Public Service Commission, Faisalabad Division, Importance of Education

---

<sup>1</sup> Assistant Professor, Department of History & Pakistan Studies, GC University, Faisalabad.

<sup>2</sup> Research Scholar, Department of History & Pakistan Studies, GC University, Faisalabad.