

WOMEN EMPOWERMENT

T. MERLIN SHIBA

Assistant Professor, Department of Community Health Nursing, Sree Balaji College of Nursing,
Bharath University, Chromepet, Chennai, Tamil Nadu, India

ABSTRACT

Women bear almost all responsibilities for meeting basic needs of the family, yet are systematically denied the resources, information and freedom of action they need to fulfil this responsibility.

Thus women empowerment should transcend the gender and reach the whole of humanity to establish a matriarchal society based on creative and generative action. Such social order should be based in the principles of love, compassion, nurturing and with a purpose of unifying the forces of nature.

KEYWORDS: Women Empowerment, Family, Globalization